LOK SABHA

The following Bil's were introduced in Lok Sabha on the 8th October, 1982:—

BILL No. 79 OF 1982

A Bill further to amend the Representation of the People Act, 1951.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Representation of the People (Amendment) Act, 1982.

(2) It shall come into force at once.

43 of 1951

2. For section 3 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, the following section shall be substituted, namely:—

“3. A person shall not be qualified to be chosen as a representative of any State or Union territory in the Council of States unless he is an elector for a Parliamentary constituency.”.

Short title and commencement.

Substitution of section 3.

Qualification for membership of the Council
States.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

According to section 3 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, a person is not qualified to be chosen as a representative of any State or Union territory in the Council of States unless he is an elector for a Parliamentary constituency in that State or territory.

In practice those who seek to contest election to the Council of States from a particular Parliamentary constituency get their permanent address changed so as to meet the requirements of the Act. This is obviously a malpractice and to prevent it an amendment is sought in the Representation of the People Act, 1951, making a citizen from any part of the country qualified to contest election to the Council of States from any State irrespective of his place of residence.

The Bill seeks to achieve this objective.

BILL NO. 83 OF 1982.

A Bill to provide for measures to assist rapid expansion of production of oil-seeds and to facilitate a more effective extraction of edible oils and other oils from different seeds both for direct human consumption as well as for the manufacture of vanaspati, soaps and other products.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Oil-seeds and Edible Oils Production Act, 1982.

Short
title,
extent
and commence-
ment.

(2) It shall extend to the whole of India.

(3) It shall come into force at once.

2. (1) It shall be unlawful, after the coming into force of this Act, to use cotton seed for directly feeding the cattle or for putting it to use before extraction.

Restrictions on use of cotton seed and penalty
for violation.

(2) Violation of the provisions of sub-section (1) shall be punishable with imprisonment for one month or with fine extending to rupees two hundred or with both.

Factories to keep record of cotton ginned.

3. All cotton ginning factories shall keep a record of cotton ginned by them and they shall make all the cotton seed available for solvent extraction.

Subsidy to ginning factories.

4. The Central Ministry of Agriculture shall pay a subsidy, as may be prescribed, to all ginning factories who deliver to the extraction plants hundred per cent of the cotton seed collected by them after completing the ginning process.

Ban on export of certain types of cotton seed cake.

5. (1) Export of undecorticated and undelinted cotton seed cake shall be totally banned after three years from the date of the coming into force of this Act.

(2) During the intervening period of three years referred to in sub-section (1), the Government shall pay cash incentives, as may be prescribed, with a view to encouraging the change-over from undecorticated and undelinted cotton seed cake to decorticated and delinted cotton seed cake.

Rice mills to change hullers into sheller and loan therefor.

6. (1) All the rice mills which make use of hullers for polishing rice at present shall convert their hullers into shellers within a period of three years from the date of the coming into force of this Act.

(2) All rice mills shall be entitled to receive loans from the nationalised banks for the purpose of converting their hullers into shellers.

Abolition of levy on shellers.

7. The existing discriminatory foodgrains levy on modern rice mills using shellers shall be abolished forthwith.

Penal levy on hullers.

8. After the expiry of the period of three years referred to in sub-section (1) of section 6, if any rice mill continues to use hullers for de-husking rice, a heavy levy shall be imposed on it for its continuing to use the old wasteful process.

Licensing of adequate capacity for production of shellers.

9. It shall be the duty of the Central Government to license adequate capacity and ensure adequate production of machinery for effecting change-over from huller to sheller as also for expanding the capacity of extraction industry.

All rice bran to be supplied for solvent extraction and penalty for violation.

10. (1) All the rice bran, the availability of which shall increase with the progressive change-over from the huller process to sheller process of dehusking rice, shall be made available for solvent extraction.

(2) It shall be unlawful, after the coming into force of this Act, to use rice bran for any purpose other than extraction of oil.

(3) Violation of the provisions of sub-section (2) shall be punishable with imprisonment for one month or with fine which may extend to rupees two hundred or with both.

Subsidy to rice mills.

11. The Central Ministry of Agriculture shall pay a subsidy to all rice mills who deliver to the extraction plants hundred per cent of the rice bran collected by them after completing the dehusking process.

12. The Government shall undertake cultivation of palm trees on an emergency basis in the coastal areas, especially in the Union Territory of Andaman and Nicobar Islands and in Kerala and for that purpose a special wing shall be set up in the Central Ministry of Agriculture for helping the Administration in the Union territory of Andaman and Nicobar Islands and the State Governments in Kerala and other States for expanding palm cultivation.

Palm cultivation by Government.

13. A special cell shall be established in the Central Ministry of Agriculture for the purpose of rapidly expanding cultivation of sunflower, especially in tracts which consist of sandy loams and black loams and which are unsuitable for groundnut cultivation and other crops.

Special cell for expanding cultivation of sunflower.

14. The Agricultural Universities shall undertake research in the matter of palm and sunflower cultivation and for that purpose the Central Ministry of Agriculture and State Agricultural Departments shall pay special grants to the Agricultural Universities.

Research on palm and sunflower cultivation.

15. The Central Government shall, in order to expand cultivation of sunflower and palm, establish a special fund for this purpose out of which special development grants shall be given to the States which exceed the targets of cultivation and production to be fixed by the Centre both for palm and sunflower cultivation.

Establishment of special fund for sunflower and palm cultivation.

16. (1) The Central Ministry of Agriculture, in co-operation with the Agricultural Ministries in the States and the Agricultural Departments in the Union territories, shall formulate and implement a scheme for the collection of minor oilseeds like neem seeds, sal seeds, Kusumba and Karanja seeds and other seeds which are at present going waste and the scheme so formulated shall, inter alia provide for drafting of beggars and unemployed people for this purpose.

Scheme for collection of minor oilseeds and payment of development grants.

(2) The Central Ministry of Agriculture shall fix targets for collection of these seeds and States which exceed targets shall be paid special development grants.

17. It shall be the duty of the Central Government and the State Governments to take suitable measures to conserve the nation's resources of edible oil and other oils and for that purpose factories producing vanaspati, soaps and other products shall be required increasingly to shift from the use of groundnut oil, rapeseed oil and mustard oil and other edible oils in general use to other oils and such change-over shall be completed within a period of five years from the date of the coming into force of this Act.

Conservation of and change-over from edible oils to other oils.

18. It shall be the duty of the Central Government to help the soap manufacturers increasingly to shift from the use of oils to the use of chemical detergents in the manufacture of soaps.

Shift from use of oil to detergents in soap manufacture.

Licensing of new units for detergents manufacture.

19. The Central Government shall take steps rapidly to expand the manufacture of chemical detergents by liberally licensing new units so that detergents manufacturing capacity is not monopolised by foreign multi-national corporations and Indian big business houses as defined by the Monopolies and Restrictive Trade Practices Act, 1969.

54 of 1969.

Power to make rules.

20. (1) The Central Government shall make rules to give effect to the provisions of this Act.

(2) Every rule made under this Act, shall be laid, as soon as may be after it is made, before each House of Parliament while it is in session for a total period of thirty days which may be comprised in one session or in two or more successive sessions, and if before the expiry of the session immediately following the session or the successive sessions aforesaid, both Houses agree in making any modification in the rule or both Houses agree that the rule should not be made, the rule shall thereafter have effect only in such modified form or be of no effect, as the case may be; so however, that any such modification or annulment shall be without prejudice to the validity of anything previously done under that rule.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Bill provides a short-term and long-term framework for solving the country's acute edible oil and oilseeds problems.

The importance of oil and oilseeds in our national economy cannot be exaggerated. Oilseeds are 13 per cent of the index of wholesale prices, next only to foodgrains.

In the past few years, there has been a shortage of oilseeds, edible oils, Vanaspati and now of soaps, and this shortage is annually growing more acute.

The Five Year Plans for the development of agriculture have not accorded the oilseeds problem the attention it deserved. On the production front, the record has been dismal. Unless drastic legal, administrative, research and investment efforts are undertaken, including as well balanced system of compulsion and inducement, the shortages are likely to get aggravated. Since the prices are increasing very rapidly, they will soon rule so high that edible oil will be beyond the reach of all except the rich.

The scheme of the Bill is to encourage economical use of oilseeds and edible oil, and to assist in the rapid expansion of oilseeds cultivation as well as extraction industry.

With this end in view, the Bill lays down that cotton seed and rice bran shall not be fed to cattle direct but must be delivered to extraction industry for taking out oil and other by-products. A change-over from uncorticated and undelinted cotton seed cake to decorticated and delinted cake and also from huller to sheller process in dehusking of rice is statutorily provided for. All violations of the law shall be punished under the Bill.

The Bill makes it compulsory for the Vanaspati industry to change from use of edible to non-edible oils and soap industry from oils to chemical detergents within a short period.

The Bill also provides the framework for rapid expansion of palm and sunflower cultivation.

MADHU DANDAVATE

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

The Bill provides for subsidies, cash incentives, grants and development grants in order to achieve the purposes thereof (clauses 4, 5, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16).

The estimated recurring expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India will be around Rs. 25 crores, and this will progressively fall after the transitional period.

The Bill, if enacted, is not likely to involve any non-recurring expenditure.

MEMORANDUM ON DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 20 of the Bill gives the Central Government power to make rules to carry out the purposes of the Bill.

The delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Central Standing Committee on Rural Unorganised Labour in its meeting held on 9th July 1980 considered a report submitted by a Sub-Committee headed by Shri B. Bhagwati on bonded labour observed that despite progressive abolition of system of contract labour, there is a possibility of an element of bondage existing amongst contract labour in remote jungle areas. The Committee also accepted that co-ordination between the working of the Inter-State Migrant Workmen (Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Service) Act, 1979 and the Bonded Labour System (Abolition) Act, 1976 would have to be effective.

The lacunae existing in the present Contract Labour (Regulation and Abolition) Act, 1970 have not only defeated the purpose for which the law was enacted, but also have become a hurdle in the way of implementation of the aforesaid two Acts. The present Bill is intended to overcome these lacunae and afford protection to the contract labour who come from rural unorganised labour, i.e. the poorest and the weakest strata of our society and are often exploited not only by the unscrupulous contractors but also by the so-called enlightened management, including the transnational corporations who are increasingly diverting work of perennial and permanent nature to the contractors.

The lacunae in the Act have also stood in the way of functioning of the Advisory Boards constituted under the Act, as it is seen that many decisions for issue of notifications prohibiting employment of contract labour taken as far back as in December 1977 are still under consideration of the Government. The Bill seeks to remove these lacunae also.

The Act had not provided any machinery for enforcement and workmen had no opportunity to seek redressal of the violations of the Acts and denial of benefits due to them except through raising industrial disputes. The Bill provides for such opportunities to the workmen so that the question of wages etc. could be standardised and violations proceeded against. This in-built protection under the Act would become a deterrent to inhuman exploitation of the weakest section of labour force in the country.

BILL NO. 114 OF 1982

A Bill further to amend the Representation of the People Act, 1951.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Representation of the People (Amendment) Act, 1982.

Short
title
and
commence-
ment.

(2) It shall come into force at once.

43 of 1951.

2. After section 10A of the Representation of the People Act, 1951 (hereinafter referred to as the principal Act), the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

Insertion
of new section 10B.

“10B. A person shall be disqualified if, after having been declared elected, he voluntarily gives up his membership of the political party which set him up as a candidate at the election.”.

Dis-qualification for changing
party.

3. After section 33 of the principal Act, the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

Insertion
of new section
33A.

“33A. A candidate shall, at the time of nomination for election, make a declaration that in case he, after having been declared elected, voluntarily gives up his membership of the political party which set him up as a candidate at the election, he shall be disqualified.”.

Declaration
at the time of nomination.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The process of formation of Ministries in States and at the Centre is being vitiated by politics of defections and piracy polluting the entire political atmosphere in the country.

The situation can be improved only by ensuring that candidates who contest the election on a party symbol allotted to their respective Parties and change their political affiliation after elections are disqualified from being the members of Legislatures concerned through a suitable amendment in the Representation of the People Act, 1951.

Hence this Bill.

Appeal.

(2) There shall be no further appeal, revision or any other proceeding to challenge the validity of the order passed by the court of appeal.

12. For the purposes of giving effect to the provisions of this Act, the appropriate Government shall appoint a competent medical officer to be known as the "authorised medical officer", and an officer of the appropriate Government as the family welfare officer for each territorial unit, as it may deem fit, and shall also designate its appropriate officer as the principal revenue officer for a village, town or a city.

Appointment of officers.

Penalty
of duty.

13. Notwithstanding anything contained in any law, rules, regulations or conditions of service, any officer appointed under section 12, who fails or neglects or acts rashly or dishonestly in the discharge of his duties under this Act, shall in addition to his liability under any law for the time being in force, be also liable to a disciplinary action and if he is found to have acted dishonestly, he shall be dismissed from service.

Explanation.—The expression 'dishonestly' shall have the meaning assigned to it in the Indian Penal Code, 1860, and an act done dishonestly includes every act done intentionally to defeat the purpose of the Act, whether by creating false record and bogus cases or by forcing innocent and ineligible persons to operation or by creating social atmosphere apathetic or derogatory to the policy of the Act, by any act or omission or otherwise, whatsoever.

45 of 1860.

Power to make
rules.

14. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The problem of population explosion has posed a serious threat to the whole world. In case of India, it is simply a menace. The population in India has risen from 361 million in 1951 to 439 million in 1961, 548 million in 1971 and 634 million in 1981. At this rate the perspective of population indicates that in 1991 the population may rise to 800 million and by the end of this century we may reach the staggering figure of 1065 million.

The traditional view that a child is a gift of God and that he who has given the beak has also given the grass has become meaningless. A child that is born brings a mouth to feed and a body to be clothed, sheltered, cared for, looked after, nurtured and nourished, trained, educated and maintained till it grows into a person capable of using his two hands to work. This casts a heavy strain on the family and through the family on the society and the nation. In a socialist society like ours, the incidence of burden of maintenance of a child has started to shift from family to society. Since the society is burdened with this burden as a liability, obligation and duty, that very society must have a say in the matter of entry of a person in society, who is to cast such a burden. This is sought to be expressed in this Bill.

Besides, it is not only a question of the society's burden. It is also a question of health of the society as seen through the health of its constituents which is looked after by the society through the institution of family. The physical as well as mental health of the child can be taken care of better if the number of persons to be cared for is less. It is, therefore, the obligation of the society to see that the size of the family is properly designed.

In the present economic structure of the society the common man who is already poor has very meagre sources of income. Every addition in the family places greater strain on those sources and the family is pushed in the direction below the poverty line. If the inflow of new comers is not checked, it is difficult to salvage the individual.

The individual liberty to manage his own family should be maintained and protected. It is, therefore, seen that his liberty is guaranteed till he gets three children. But when the liberty crosses the reasonable limit and enters the realm of laxity, irresponsibility and indiscipline, it is the duty of the society to take action.

However, guided by false notions of fundamental rights and liberties, the programme adopted for achievement of the aforesaid objective is not properly implemented. It is, therefore, necessary to infuse discipline among those who are charged with the duty to implement the programme.

There is, therefore, a national consensus on the problem of proper control of the population through the appropriate management of family welfare.

This Bill seeks to achieve the aforesaid objectives.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 12 of the Bill provides for the appointment of authorised medical officer, family welfare officer and also principal revenue officer by the appropriate Government. These officers shall also be appointed for Union territories. The Bill, therefore, if enacted, will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. It is likely to involve a recurring expenditure of about Rs. 6,66,000 per annum and non-recurring expenditure of Rs. 3,70,000.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 14 of the Bill gives power to the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the purposes of the Act. As the rules will relate to matters of detail only, the delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.

BILL NO. 116 OF 1982

A Bill to protect the dignity of womanhood with special reference to concubinage and unilateral divorce.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Protection of the Dignity of Womanhood Act, 1982.

Short
title
extent
and com-
ment.

(2) It shall extend to the whole of India.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

2. This Act shall apply to all persons who are residing in India.

Application,

3. In this Act,—

Definitions.

(a) 'concubine' means and includes a woman who either permanently or for a limited period—

(i) marries, under any law whatsoever, a man who has already at least one legally married wife living, without being divorced; or

(ii) cohabits with a man, without a lawful wedlock; or

(iii) keeps relations with a man as husband-and-wife, without a lawful wedlock, under any agreement, custom, usage or otherwise, whatsoever.

(b) 'field of development of personality' includes education, art, science, employment, business and every field in which the inborn or acquired qualities of a human being can be utilised or advanced.

Concubine to be a lawful wife.

4. Notwithstanding anything contained in any law, custom, usage, agreement or otherwise whatsoever, every concubine shall, on the date of the coming into force of this Act, be deemed to be a lawful wife of the man of whom she is a concubine and shall have full rights and shall be subject to all duties and obligations, as a lawfully married wife, with retrospective effect from the date on which she became a concubine:

Provided that so long as a legally married wife of the man is living she shall, to the exclusion of the concubine, have exclusive social and religious rights and duties as a lawful wife of the man.

Status and rights of children of a concubine.

5. Notwithstanding anything contained in any law, custom, usage or agreement, every child of a concubine born of the man of whom she is a concubine before the coming into force of this Act shall be deemed to be the lawful child of the man and shall have the same social, religious and economic rights including rights of maintenance and succession and shall be subject to the same duties and obligations as those of a lawful child of that man.

Prohibition of Concubinage.

6. Notwithstanding anything contained in any law, custom, usage or agreement, concubinage of any kind whatsoever is hereby prohibited.

Concubinage by a bachelor, widower or a divorcee.

7. (1) If a man who is a bachelor, widower or a person divorced from his wife, keeps a concubine, after coming into force of this Act, he shall be deemed to be her lawful husband and the provisions of sections 4 and 5 shall apply mutatis mutandis to her and her children born of that man.

(2) If the concubine has already a lawful husband living without being divorced—

(i) she shall be deemed to be divorced from him from the date on which she is kept as a concubine without any claim for alimony or anything else whatsoever;

(ii) all the property belonging to the former husband in possession of such a woman, either as a gift, share or otherwise, shall be restored to him forthwith;

(iii) the custody of her children from her former husband shall, if so demanded, be given to him;

(iv) the children of the former husband shall have a claim to maintenance from the income and assets of the woman as well as of the man of whom she has become the concubine;

(v) she shall, on conviction, be punished with imprisonment which may extend to one year and shall also be liable to fine which may extend to one thousand rupees;

(vi) and has two children already she shall on conviction, be operated for tubectomy, before release.

(vii) her paramour shall, on conviction, be punished with imprisonment which may extend to one year and shall also be liable to fine which may extend to one thousand rupees; and

(viii) and if her paramour has two children already, he shall on conviction be operated for vasectomy, before release.

8. (1) If a man who has a lawful wife living without being divorced, keeps a concubine, after the coming into force of this Act, he shall, on conviction be punished with imprisonment which may extend to three years, but which shall not, in any case, be less than one year, and with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees, but which shall not, in any case, be less than one thousand rupees and—

Concu-
binage
by a married man.

(a) on completion of his term of imprisonment he shall be immediately operated for vasectomy and thereafter released, and

(b) if, thereafter, he continues to keep or keeps a concubine, he shall be—

(i) removed from service, if any; and

(ii) debarred from getting any aid or assistance in any form, under any scheme, project, plan or programme undertaken or sponsored by the Government, local authority or public undertaking, company, corporation or any other such organisation by whatsoever name called.

(2) The wife of such a man shall have the right to reside separately from her husband, with or without a decree of judicial separation, with an option to get a divorce and where she opts for a divorce and gets it,—

(i) she shall be entitled to alimony as well as a share in the property of the husband or in a notional partition, on the date of filing of the petition for divorce, she and each of her children from that husband and the husband shall have equal shares and her share in the property shall remain with her and the alimony shall be paid to her till she remains chaste and does not re-marry;

(ii) the custody of the minor children shall be with the mother;

(3) If the wife of such a man resides separately, without divorce, she shall be entitled to maintenance from her husband for herself and her children who remain with her.

(4) Where the concubine is a maiden or a widow or a divorcee, she shall, on conviction, be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year and with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

(5) Where the concubine is a woman having her husband living without being divorced, the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 7 shall apply mutatis mutandis to her.

(6) Where the wife gets a divorce, under sub-section (2) of this section, the concubine shall become a lawful wife of the man and the provisions of sections 4 and 5 shall apply mutatis mutandis to her and her children born of that man.

Unilateral
divorce
prohibited.

9. Notwithstanding anything contained in any law, custom, usage, or agreement no man shall divorce his wife unilaterally, and any such divorce or attempt to divorce shall be of no effect.

Restrictions on women
prohibited.

10. (1) Any restriction, whether social, religious or otherwise, which subjugates a woman to the domination of a man or tends to discriminate her, to her disadvantage, in the field of development of her personality, shall be illegal and of no effect.

(2) Every person or authority which imposes or attempts to impose any such restriction shall, on conviction, be punished with imprisonment which may extend to six months but which shall in no case be less than one month and shall also be liable to fine which shall extend to five thousand rupees but which shall in no case be less than one thousand rupees.

Complaints.

11. Any person may make a complaint to the Magistrate, having jurisdiction to take cognisance of the offences under this Act, within whose jurisdiction the accused or any one of them resides.

Appeal.

12. (1) A person aggrieved by any order of conviction and sentence under this Act, may prefer an appeal to the Court to which an appeal from such order of the said Magistrate ordinarily lies.

(2) There shall be no second appeal, revision or other proceedings, against the order of the court of appeal.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Dignity of womanhood is at the base of Indian culture. (Yatra Varyastu Poojyante Ramante Tatra Devatah). Therefore in spite of the practice of polygamy, monogamy has been held in the highest regard in Indian society. Freedom of women in the matters of development of their personality was respected and protected. However, these basic values have eroded during the ages and different norms of living were developed in which the dignity of womanhood was attacked from all sides.

During the course of the change in the norms of living sometime it was treated as a fashion to keep one or more concubines. It was developed into a matter of dignity of a man. His greatness was sought to be counted in terms of the number of concubines he kept. Girls and women born in socially backward surroundings ridden with ignorance and poverty, in particular, were utilised for concubinage. The result was that the man, could satisfy his lust to any extent to which his economic power permitted, without incurring any liability. He could procreate children which became the burden of the mother—the concubine—who was unable to sustain it, and consequently they brought more and more misery to the woman, through whom the burden of misery was shifted to the society.

These concubines had no place of honour in the society. They were looked upon with despise and contempt. Indignities done to them either by the paramours or by others were of no consequence. They were destined to die in the same state of indignity or perhaps worse in which they entered concubinage. They were worse than domestic pets. When the society underwent a change in which polygamy was sought to be prohibited by law, no action was taken to prohibit concubinage. The lot of the concubines remained unchanged.

The man's lust, however, prompted him to invent new methods for its satisfaction.

Recently, a new method is found to have been adopted by the parties. It is the method of entering into a "contract of friendship" or a "contract for companionship" or the like, mostly for a limited period.

The concubinage is, thus, one of the severest indignities to womanhood. It needs to be checked, controlled and stopped.

The children of the concubine are in a more unfortunate position, for no fault of theirs. They have no status in the family and no status in the society. They get no right in the estate of their natural father, while those born in lawful wedlock appropriate everything to themselves. There is absolutely no reason why the "children" should be so ill-treated and ousted from the participation in and aspirations for a decent life. It is necessary, therefore, to put them at par with the children born out of lawful wedlock.

Sometimes, the women are denied certain freedoms including those concerning admission to institutions of learning. It is also necessary to stop such prohibitions against women.

This Bill seeks to achieve these objectives.

BILL No. 117 OF 1982

A Bill to give voting right to citizens of India who are not ordinarily resident of India.

WHEREAS the Constitution of India confers upon every citizen the right to participate in the governance of the country; and

WHEREAS elections to Parliament and the legislatures of the States are held on the basis of adult suffrage; and

WHEREAS large number of citizens of India for various reasons are not ordinarily resident in India, and yet entertain a keen desire to participate in the elections held from time to time in India; and

WHEREAS it is expedient to create a machinery to enable such citizens to vote at the said elections;

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called The Indians Abroad (Voting Right at Elections) Act, 1982.

(2) It extends to the whole of India except the State of Jammu and Kashmir.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

Short
title.
extent and commencement.

Right to Vote to citizens who are not ordinarily resident of India.

2. Notwithstanding anything contained in Part II B and Part III of the Representation of the People Act, 1950, the Election Commission of India shall make provision for and create an adequate machinery to enable citizens of India not ordinarily resident within India to vote at every election to Parliament and the legislature of a State from a constituency of their choice.

43 of 1950.

Power to make rules.

3. (1) The Central Government shall make rules to carry out the purposes of the Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for:—

(a) adequate publicity before the elections are held;

(b) the manner in which a citizen of India residing outside India may select his constituency for the purpose of voting at an election to Parliament or an election to the legislature of a State;

(c) preparation of electoral rolls in every country and part of a country where a substantial number of citizens of India reside;

(d) the date, place and manner of casting of votes;

(e) the supply of ballot papers and the transmission of used ballot papers and the counting of the votes cast.

(3) The rules when framed shall come into force at once but any rule may be disapproved by Parliament within forty days after their coming into force and on such disapproval the rule so disapproved shall cease to be in force.

Diplomatic
consular officers to help
Election Commission
of India.

4. All diplomatic and consular officers of the Government of India shall act in aid of the Election Commission of India in the discharge of its function under section 2.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

A large number of patriotic Indian citizens who take keen interest in Indian affairs feel disenfranchised because there is no machinery in existence to enable them to vote at elections held in India from time to time. This Bill is intended to remove that grievance and to strengthen the emotional bond between India and its citizens who do not ordinarily live on the soil of India.

Hence this Bill.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 2 of the Bill provides for the creation of a machinery for effectuating the voting rights of Indian citizens residing outside India. The Bill, if enacted, will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. It is likely to involve a recurring expenditure of about rupees two lakhs per annum and non-recurring expenditure of about rupees fifty thousand.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 3 of the Bill provides that the Central Government shall make rules for carrying out the purposes of the Act. These rules will relate to matters of detail only. The Delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.

BILL No. 107 OF 1982

A Bill to provide for the establishment of a High Court at Agartala, Tripura.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Establishment of a High Court at Agartala Act, 1982.

Establishment of a High Court at Agartala. 2. There shall be established a High Court at Agartala, Tripura, and such number of Judges, as the President may, from time to time appoint, shall sit in order to exercise the jurisdiction and power for and in respect of cases arising in the State of Tripura.

Transfer of cases from High Court at Gauhati. 3. The cases pending in the High Court at Gauhati originating from the State of Tripura shall stand transferred to the High Court at Agartala from the date of the establishment of the High Court at Agartala, Tripura.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Tripura lies at the extreme far east of the country and is not linked properly by railway with the rest of the land. The High Court at Gauhati is not easily approachable due to lack of transport facilities. The State is also economically very poor and the people of the State are finding it extremely difficult to go to Gauhati and pursue for justice from the High Court there. They have to travel several hundred miles by bus, unnecessarily spend a huge amount to reach Gauhati in order to file writs and similar petitions for seeking justice. In the interest of the litigant public of this poor State and in order to administer cheap and quick justice, it is necessary to establish a separate High Court at Agartala in Tripura.

The Bill seeks to achieve the above objective.

PRESIDENT'S RECOMMENDATION UNDER ARTICLE 117 OF
THE CONSTITUTION OF INDIA

[Copy of letter No. 68/30/82-Jus, dated 2 August 1982 from Shri Jagannath Kaushal, Minister of Law, Justice and Company Affairs to the Secretary, Lok Sabha.]

The President, having been informed of the subject matter of the Bill to establish a High Court at Agartala, Tripura, recommends.

- (a) introduced of the Bill in Lok Sabha under article 117(1) of the Constitution; and
- (b) consideration of the Bill in Lok Sabha under article 117(3) of the Constitution.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 2 of the Bill provides for the establishment of a High Court at Agartala, Tripura. The amount of pensions payable to the Judges of the High Court is expenditure charged on the Consolidated Fund of India. The Bill, therefore, if enacted, will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. It is likely to involve a recurring expenditure of about rupees two lakhs per annum.

No non-recurring expenditure is likely to be involved from the Consolidated Fund of India.

BILL No. 108 OF 1982

A Bill to protect building and construction workers and to provide for their minimum wages, security of job, and such other health and welfare measures for them as are provided for in various labour and industrial laws in force in India.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Building and Construction Workers (Conditions of Employment) Act, 1982.

(2) It extends to the whole of India.

(3) It shall come into force at once.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) “appropriate Government” means, in relation to any building or construction work, the State or the Central Government, whosoever has jurisdiction over the site;

Short

Constitution of Advisory Councils.

22. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the provisions of this Act.

Power to make rules.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

(a) the manner in which the register of construction workers shall be maintained;

(b) the manner in which the register of employers' and contractors shall be maintained;

(c) security of job and other measures as provided for in various labour and industrial laws in force in India;

(d) hours of work, daily interval for rest, spread-over of hours of work, split duty, notice of hours of work, weekly rest, compensatory day of rest, overtime wages for extra work, annual leave with wages and similar other matters;

(e) the manner in which the amount to be provided to each local authority out of the Fund shall be determined;

(f) any other matter which is required to be or may be prescribed.

(3) Every rule made under this section shall be laid, as soon as may be after it is made, before each House of Parliament, while it is in session, for a total period of thirty days which may be comprised in one session or in two or more successive sessions, and if, before the expiry of the session immediately following the session or the successive sessions, aforesaid both Houses agree in making any modification in the rule or both Houses agree that the rule should not be made, the rule shall thereafter have effect only in such modified form or be of no effect, as the case may be; so, however, that any such modification or annulment shall be without prejudice to the validity of anything previously done under that rule.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The building and construction workers in the country are the worst sufferers so far as wages and working conditions are concerned. The system of Bonded Labour is the most common factor in the construction and building industry. The fact that these workers are not organised and are usually coming from distant and remote parts of the country is also the reason for their full exploitation by the building and construction employers. These workers are not being paid minimum wages; in fact they are not paid any regular wages but are given advances, which are adjusted against their due wages, and the process is never ending, resulting in their bonded existence. There is no fixed job for them and they are being asked to do all sorts of jobs, which mean no skilled status for them. There is no fixed working time for them. The result is that these workers are always underpaid, underfed, under bondage for most of the time of their lives. There is no security of job, no old age provision and mostly they die unsung, unwept and unnoticed. It is, therefore, necessary that some attention is paid to this lot of unfortunate citizens so that they too have some sort of human existence while they live and they have a respectable death when they die. Some protection is necessary during their long service in the shape of such provident fund, health and other welfare measures for them as are provided for in various labour and industrial laws in force in India. The time has come, therefore, that legislation is passed to achieve these objectives soon.

Hence this Bill.

PRESIDENT'S RECOMMENDATION UNDER ARTICLE 117 OF THE CONSTITUTION OF INDIA

[Copy of letter No. H-11021/10/82-LW, dated 4 August 1982 from Shri Bhagwat Jha Azad, Minister of State of the Ministry of Labour, to the Secretary, Lok Sabha.]

The President, having been informed of the subject matter of the above Bill, has recommended it under articles 117(1) and 117(3) of the Constitution for introduction and consideration in the Lok Sabha.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 6 of the Bill provides for provision of Inspection staff for enforcement of the provisions of the Bill. Clause 7 and 8 provide for maintaining of registers of construction workers and employers by the local authority. Clause 11 provides for payment of minimum wage of Rs. 600/- per month to workers. There are some Government departments who carry out construction work departmentally, e.g., C.P.W.D. and State P.W.Ds., who will also have to pay the minimum wage provided for in the Bill. Clause 16 provides for payment of unemployment allowance to workers by the appropriate Government. Clause 20 provides for levy of a cess for the purposes of the Bill, the collection of which will involve expenditure. Clause 21 provides for constitution of Advisory Councils at the Central as well as the State levels. The Bill, therefore, if enacted, will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India on implementation of these provisions in the Union territories and at the same time towards making grants-in-aid to some extent to the States to meet a part of this expenditure. An annual recurring expenditure of about rupees 20 lakhs is estimated to be incurred from the Consolidated Fund of India on this account.

A non-recurring expenditure of about rupees 5 lakhs is also likely to be incurred for carrying out the purposes of the Bill.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 22 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the purposes of the Bill. Since the rules to be made will relate to matters of detail only which cannot be provided for in the Bill itself, the delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.

BILL NO. 110 OF 1982

A Bill to provide for various measures for population control.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Population Control Act, 1982.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

2. Every person, who undergoes an operation for the purpose of birth control after having two children, shall be given by the Government the following incentives, namely:—

(a) cash reward as may be prescribed by the Government but which shall not be less than one thousand rupees;

(b) suitable employment, if the person is unemployed.

control.

Free education etc. to every child.

3. Every child, the income of whose parents is less than six hundred rupees per month, shall be provided free education upto the senior secondary stage including supply of books, exercise-books and uniforms free of any charge.

Establishment of Small Family-cum-Child Welfare Centres.

4. (1) There shall be established Small Family-cum-Child Welfare Centres, hereinafter called the Centres, by the Government for every five thousand of population in rural areas and for every twenty-five thousand of population in urban areas.

(2) The Centres shall guide the married persons in the use of preventive methods of birth control and provide them with suitable birth control devices free of any charge.

(3) There shall be made adequate arrangements at every Centre for carrying out birth control operations, post-operation care of the persons who undergo operation and supply of necessary medicines to them free of any charge.

(4) There shall be made adequate arrangements at every Centre for providing complete medical care to every child upto the age of ten years free to any charge.

(5) The Government shall take suitable steps to attract the people in rural areas to attend the Centres and avail of the facilities provided at the Centres.

Publicity to provisions of Act.

5. (1) The Government shall give effective and regular publicity to the provisions of this Act and the advantages of a small and planned family.

(2) The publicity shall be made through various official and non-official mass publicity media including newspapers, magazines, radio, television, cinema, mobile film units, exhibitions, etc.

(3) The Government shall take suitable steps to attract the people in rural areas to attend the family planning publicity programmes.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Poverty results in the growth of population and population growth in turn increases poverty. But no real impact can be made on this disease of uncontrollable population growth merely by creating a consciousness about family planning as long as that consciousness is not borne out by the day-to-day experiences of the masses. Hence, this vicious circle can only be broken by better education, more social welfare measures and enlargement of employment opportunities, in addition to monetary motivation for birth control, and these need a higher level of prosperity for the masses. Enactment of a legislation providing for such motivations for birth control is, therefore, necessary to achieve the objective of population control.

Hence this Bill.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 2 of the Bill provides for payment of cash rewards to those who undergo birth control operation after having two children and suitable employment to those of such persons who are unemployed. Clause 3 provides for free education and free supply of books, uniforms, etc. to every child the income of whose parents is less than six hundred rupees per month. Clause 4 provides for establishment of Small Family-cum-Child Welfare Centres by the Government, free arrangements at these Centres for carrying out birth control operations, post-operation care and supply of medicines free of any charge. It also provides for complete medical care to the children upto the age of ten years free of any charge. Clause 5 provides for publicity by the Government to the provisions of the Bill. The Bill, therefore, if enacted, will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India on implementation of these provisions in the Union territories and at the same time towards making grants-in-aid to the States to meet a part of this expenditure. An annual recurring expenditure of about rupees one thousand crores is estimated to be incurred from the Consolidated Fund of India on this account.

A non-recurring expenditure of about rupees five hundred crores is also likely to be incurred for carrying out the purposes of the Bill.

BILL No. 111 OF 1982

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1982.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by Notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

2. In the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution,—

(a) List II—State List, entry 18 shall be omitted;

(b) in List III—Concurrent List, after entry 17B, the following entry shall be inserted, namely:—

“17C. Land, that is to say, rights in or over land, land tenures including the relation of landlord and tenant, and the collection of rents; transfer and alienation of agricultural land; land improvement and agricultural loans; colonization.”.

Short

and mence-

ment.
Amendment of Seventh
Schedule.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The review of implementation of revised land ceiling laws in different States shows that against 40.01 lakh acres of land declared surplus, 26.87 lakh acres have been taken possession of, out of which an area of 18.77 lakh acres has been distributed. There is thus a gap of about 13 lakh acres between the area declared surplus and the area taken possession of. Similarly, the gap between the area taken possession of and the area, distributed, which technically represents the land available for distribution, is about 8 lakh acres. The extent of the gap varies from State to State, but the fact of its existence is not in doubt.

2. It is not always that the pace of implementation could have been quickened by more alert executive action. There are other factors also responsible for delay in implementation. Of about 13 lakh acres of land representing the difference between the area declared surplus and area taken possession of, nearly 11.14 lakh acres are the subject matter of litigation. The pendency of such court cases is particularly high in the States of Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh Maharashtra and West Bengal etc.

3. Correct and up-to-date land records are not only necessary to protect legitimate interests in the land, they facilitate the flow of credit to rural areas. One of the reasons for inadequacy of credit supply to agriculture in general and to small and marginal farmers and tenants in particular has been that land records are either not maintained at all or are not maintained up-to-date.

Hence, the first objective must be to liquidate the pendency of cases since that could be the most efficient method of accelerating the distribution of surplus land, and facilitating the easy flow of credit to the needy farmers in the rural areas to help them raise the standard of living.

With a view to accelerating the implementation of revised land ceiling laws in various parts of the country, by removing various bottlenecks, it is necessary that the Union Government is empowered to enact legislation for this purpose.

BILL NO. 112 OF 1982

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

Enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1982.

Short
title
and
commence-
ment.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

2. In the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution,—

Amendment
of Seventh
Schedule.

(a) in List II—State List, entry 17 shall be omitted;

(b) in List III—Concurrent List, after entry 17B, the following entry shall be inserted, namely:—

“17C. Water, that is to say, water supplies, irrigation and canals, drainage and embankments, water storage and water power subject to the provisions of entry 56 of List I.”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The anticipated irrigation potential by the end of the 1981-82 was 61.33 million hectares and the corresponding utilisation was 57.22 million hectares only. According to the revised 20-point programme, the area under irrigation is to be increased by 3 million hectares per year during the remaining three years of the Sixth Plan. The programme for utilization of irrigation facilities will, therefore, have to be accelerated.

But in spite of the importance of utilisation of the assets already created to the maximum extent possible which has been stressed in the previous plans, much headway has not been made in this programme as the figures reveal above.

The short-fall in the extent of utilization was mainly due to a number of bottlenecks, viz., lack of adequate field organisation for carrying out the works, lack of enabling legislation to take up farm development works on a compulsory basis, inadequate attention towards all correlated items like modernisation of irrigation system, drainage, crop planning, supply of quality seeds and other inputs, short term credit, introduction of Warabandi, etc.

In view of the year 1982 being declared as the productivity year, concerted efforts should be made to improve the utilisation of irrigation potential created on irrigation projects, with a view to not only increase the total production but also increase productivity per unit of land and water.

Keeping in view the gap between the irrigation potential and its utilisation, it is necessary that the Union Government is empowered to enact laws so as to ensure full utilisation of irrigation potential by removing the bottlenecks in its utilisation.

Hence this Bill.
